

95% ALOE VERA GEL

Traditionally, external curative properties have been attributed to the Aloe Vera as it has been shown in the treatment of burns and wounds, due to that it was observed that the healing process was accelerated. It was also proved that it positively worked in the healing of lesions produced by an excess of UV radiation on the skin.

Nowadays we count with numerous testimonies that explain the mechanism of action of the Aloe Vera as a consequence of a joint action of all the active ingredients that are part of it, being the polysaccharides present in the Aloe Vera which make the function of coordinating the action of the rest of the components. Scientific investigations show that Aloe Vera has emollient, hydrant, wetting, regenerative, anti-inflammatory, healing qualities, etc.

USES AND QUALITIES

- It is highly effective when applied after sun exposition as well as after waxing, shaving, burns, wounds, allergies, etc. It deeply hydrates dry, irritated, and red skins due to external agents such as the sun, cold weather, wind, etc. (it is recommendable applying it after a moisturising cream on dry skins).
- It also works as a soft fixing gel, providing all the qualities of the Aloe to our hair and scalp.
- It is highly effective on tired and aged skins, as it has firming qualities natural from the Aloe Vera. After its application, a soft and silky skin is highly appreciated.
- It prevents acne thanks to its anti-microbial properties as well as spots and marks due to its healing and regenerative power.

It has 95% of Aloe Vera and 5% of hydrant ingredients among which lactic acid is found which in combination make of it a moisturising product not only for therapeutic uses but also for body use.

It intensely moisturises dry skin, leaving it soft and terse longer, improving its elasticity and nourishing the skin without obstructing the pores.

Did you know that...?

It is thought that the word "Aloe" comes from the Arabic Alloeh that means "bitter shiny substance" while "Vera" comes from a Latin word that means "truth" because in ancient times this variety of plant was considered as the most effective within the medicine area.
